Bishop Sharma D. Lewis said,

“United Methodist Church secretaries are called to ministry as surely as any pastor. It is clear that those who work in the various administrative and support staff positions in the Church are called to ministry and they are partners in Christ’s ministry. It is also clear that the more effective and efficient these persons are in their various areas of responsibility, the greater the opportunities for advancing the kingdom of God through your local church.... Support your administrative and support staff by acknowledging their participation in PAUMCS.”

Church Office Safety

In today’s news we hear constantly about church related shootings, vandalism and thefts. How do we as administrative church professionals maintain our personal and overall safety?

Tami J. Wyrick

Tami J. Wyrick will help us learn the latest precautions and tips for maintaining a safe working environment in churches of various sizes and localities. She is a national expert on the subject matter of Crime Prevention, Workplace Violence, Stalking and Safety for Women, Threat and Vulnerability Assessments, Safety and Worship.

Tami is the recently retired Executive Director of the Virginia Crime Prevention Association. The mission and commitment of the VCPA is to make our communities safer by providing programs and services that reduce the occurrence of terrorism, crime and victimization.

Ms. Wyrick is now the Vice President (Consultant) of Business Development for the Larkin Group, which specializes in delivering facility vulnerability and Crime Prevention Through Environmental Assessments, threat analysis, and multi-faceted security solutions for public and private school systems, places of worship, and multi-national corporations.

Please join us for this timely event and learn how you can be safer at work and in the process make your church a safer place to worship.
